

CANER Ayse, Assoc.Prof., Izmir, Turkey

Ege University Faculty of Medicine Department of Parasitology

After graduating from Istanbul University Faculty of Medicine, she completed his doctorate at Ege University Faculty of Medicine, Department of Parasitology. During this time, she did part of his thesis at the Toxoplasma Reference Center at Singleton Hospital, UK. Then, she completed her second doctorate in Cancer Biology and Immunology program at Ege University Department of Basic Oncology. She did her doctoral thesis at the MD Anderson Cancer Center, Department of Experimental Therapeutics in the USA. She then continued her studies as a post-doctoral fellow there. She is currently doing his third doctorate in Ege University Bioinformatics Department and is in the thesis stage. She continues her duty as the head of the Department of Basic Oncology. She has focus on tumor microbiota and circRNA in cancer.